NAZIS BOLSTER DEFENSES ON ROME ROAD

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH. FAYETTE

We got ready to put the fifth star in the Record-Herald's service flag Friday after the paper was put to bed . . . it will be for James Barger . . . he goes to Great Lakes Naval Training Station Tuesday to learn to be one of Uncle Sam's sailors.

More than a thousand boys have gone from this community in the last two years to fight for what they believe to be right . . . and the American way of life. . . "Puss", as he is known to everyone in the shop and office, is really no different from the rest of them . . . we just liked and admired him so much, it was a sort of special occasion . . . we had all chipped in to get him a little token of remembrance and appreciation . . . it was a pocketbook . . . and inside was a crisp $50 bill . . . no one seems to know just how he'll carry it in those pocketless sailor's trousers . . . there was a little ceremony for the presentation . . . F. F. Tipton, the business manager, made the remarks . . . it was all very informal . . . and was held just outside the door of the casting room where "Puss" turned out thousands of big plates from which your paper has been printed for more than six years. . . there was an awkward silence . . . finally "Puss" said as he stared at the crumpled paper and pocketbook in his hand . . . "About all I can say is thank you" and then with the wit with which he always has brightened up the shop, he added . . . "Uncle Sam is doing the talking now and all I do is listen" . . . it was just as simple as that . . . didn't take five minutes . . . and then we all sauntered back to desks and machines . . . no one said much . . . it wasn't that he was going to war so much as it was the realization that he would not be here, a cog in the human machine that grinds out a paper every day until the war is over . . . there was no hint of rancor . . . neither was it exactly sadness . . . because we all expect to see "Puss" back at his old place when the more important business at hand is finished.

We are all very proud of "Puss" . . . just as we are proud of all the rest of the boys in uniform . . . and maybe we're just a little envious, too . . . he'll be doing what most of the rest of us would like to do . . . but for various reasons cannot . . . he'll have experiences he never would have had otherwise . . . he'll be a good sailor . . . because he was a good workman . . . he can be counted on when the going gets tough . . . and he'll never complain nor shirk . . . he just isn't made that way . . . we here at the Record-Herald know him . . . and know he'll be a credit to the navy . . . but we'll miss him . . . and will be glad when he comes back.

The women of Washington C. H. and Fayette County have ways of falling back on their own resourcefulness in wartime . . . and it's not all done in Victory gardens and over the kitchen stoves . . . maybe you think that sewing and dressmaking is a lost art . . . well, if you do, you're very wrong . . . and here's just a little bit of evidence to prove it . . . sales slips of the yard goods counters of the stores could probably add some more.

Ann Adams Patterns have been one of the features of the Record-Herald for nearly three years now . . . many of our readers have been making use of them, a check of the records for orders reveals . . . but the upswing came with the war . . . and it's been soaring ever since . . . for example, the increase for one month (July) was 101 percent over the same month a year ago.

Ladies, let a man suggest that you take a look at those patterns . . . they appear, a different one, every day in your Record-Herald.

USE WASTE PAPER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—About one-third of the paper used in production today is waste paper and the War Production Board is striving to boost the yield from that source to 50 percent of the total.

NAZI FACTORIES ARE SMASHED IN MULTIPLE RAID

Berlin Gets Small Dose in Comparison To Devastation Dumped on Hannover

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—RAF bombers hit the German rubber manufacturing center of Hannover in great strength last night while a smaller force gave the seaport of Bremen its second pounding within 24 hours and Mosquitos attacked Berlin and targets in the Ruhr, the British Air Ministry announced today.

The raids climaxed a day of intense aerial activity and preliminary reports showed that the attacks were concentrated. Thirty-one bombers failed to return from the missions.

Announcing Bremen as the target of British night bombers, BOMBERS ROAR BACK LONDON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Strong formations of heavy American bombers flew deep into Europe today to bomb important targets in Pomerania, in eastern Germany, Poland, and East Prussia it was announced.

DNB in a Berlin broadcast also said Hannover, German rubber center of half a million population, also was raided in the second heavy RAF blow there within two weeks.

The last time the British and the Americans teamed up for a double attack within a 24-hour period was Oct. 4 when the Fortresses plastered the Frankfurt warplane factory in daylight and British bombers hopped on the same target that night.

The Germans said early reports on last night's "terror" raids indicated that 25 British aircraft were shot down.

In a flaming air battle over Germany, 142 Nazi fighters were knocked down yesterday by American four-engine bombers and Thunderbolts beating their way to Bremen and Vegesack through fierce opposition which returning fliers said included small bomb-loaded rocket planes. Thirty-one bombers were lost and three of the Thunderbolts which provided cover half-way to the targets, also failed to return.

The German radio admitted that "particularly heavy destruction" resulted from the raids. The toll of 142 German planes was the second heaviest of the war and was exceeded only in the twin raid on Regensburg and Schweinfurt Aug. 17 when 307 were shot down.

American pilots said flak over the target was particularly intense. When the Nazi planes rose to the attack they bored in, attempting to penetrate the fighter plane screen. If they failed, the pilots said, they launched the small rocket-propelled bearing bombs.

The Air Ministry announced meanwhile that aerial reconnaissance over Frankfurt yesterday showed fires started by British bombers four days before still were raging.

BREMEN LAID WASTE STOCKHOLM, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The center of Bremen was laid waste.

Reds Blast Wedges Into Nazi Defenses

WITH ONLY A SLIGHT LULL the Russian summer offensive has been converted into an expanded autumn drive to oust the Germans from Soviet soil. Great gains have been scored at both the northern and southern ends of the 2,000-mile front, as shown on this map. In the north, the Red Army has captured the city of Nevel, which is only 60 miles from the Latvian border.

FAULT FINDING SPAWNS PROBE

War Zone Touring Senators End 'Secret' Reporting

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Senate's two-day private review of what's going on at the war fronts spawned today an investigation of lend-lease operations and boded ill for President Roosevelt's request for an additional $5,000,000 appropriation to the Office of War Information (OWI).

In a cantankerous mood after nearly six hours wrangling behind closed doors yesterday, members showed a pressing desire to look into the operation of some agencies that were criticized roundly by five senators who inspected the war theaters.

One of the touring senators, Brewster (R-Me.), served notice that lend-lease is in line for a thorough going-over by the Truman war investigating committee, on which he serves.

Brewster charged there had been instances of mismanagement, citing 30,000 trucks sent to Australian civilians while only 15,000 were left for use of civilians in this country.

Brewster said the Truman group also is interested in the president's request for more funds for overseas operations of the OWI—a subject at which the House appropriations committee will have the first crack.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) previously told the Senate he felt some OWI propaganda in foreign lands was childish. Brewster supplemented this with the information that touring senators

WAR ON JAPAN BY PORTUGAL IN PROSPECT

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Dispatches from Madrid today said diplomatic quarters there looked for Portugal to declare war on Japan as a protest against Japanese encroachment upon Portuguese territory.

Correspondents of London morning newspapers reported from the Spanish capital also that the Portuguese National Assembly was called into session yesterday to hear an "important statement by the Portuguese government."

There was no announcement when this session broke up, but the dispatches said Premier Salazar immediately went into conference with his cabinet. Just before the assembly convened, Salazar again saw the Japanese minister to Lisbon, it was said.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN UPPER MICHIGAN

MARQUETTE, Mich., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Fire swept uncontrolled today through thousands of acres of timberland in Michigan's peninsula.

Conservation officials, describing the forest conflagration as the worst in northern Michigan since 1936, said they could "see no end" to it until it rained or snowed.

More than 40 separate fires, many of them unchecked, were reported raging in the upper peninsula. Conservation officials said they have been hampered in fighting the blazes by manpower and equipment shortages.

AL JOLSON'S CONDITION REPORTED 'JUST FAIR'

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The condition of Al Jolson, stage and screen star who has been seriously ill of pneumonia the past several days, was reported "just fair" by his nurse today.

Jolson returned here recently from entertainment of American troops in North Africa and Sicily.

MORE FREIGHT CARS TO RELIEVE SHORTAGE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Office of Defense Transportation reported today it had authorized the Mt. Vernon Car Mfg. Co. to build 35 new freight cars, part of 15,983 being produced to relieve a critical shortage of carriers.

Jap Naval Force is Smashed On Rescue Dash to Solomons

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 9.—(AP)—An outnumbered force of United States destroyers, wilying a Japanese task force bent on rescuing troops from the central Solomons, sank an enemy cruiser or heavy destroyer and at least two other destroyers in a moonlit battle.

The engagement, in which American losses were described as "moderate," occurred shortly before midnight Wednesday northwest of Vella Lavella island. It first was reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The Japanese ships, in three groups, were intercepted by a force commanded by Capt. Frank Robinson Walker of Alabama while attempting either to pull off Nipponese remnants still holding out against the Americans on Vella Lavella or to complete the evacuation of bypassed Kolombangara to the south.

Without waiting for reinforcements, Captain Walker maneuvered his forces for battle against the first enemy group. MacArthur's communique said gunfire exploded a light cruiser and one destroyer; a torpedo sank a second destroyer; and two other destroyers, badly mauled, limped away.

(South Pacific headquarters said a third destroyer probably sank, and two or three other destroyers were damaged.)

The second Japanese group, probably destroyers, and the third, consisting of barges and small combatant craft, saw at

CANON ON MARRIAGE REMAINS UNCHANGED

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—(AP)—With its three most controversial issues disposed of, the Protestant Episcopal Church's 4th triennial convention turned today to matters of church budget and policy, final major questions expected to confront the delegates.

The House of Deputies late yesterday rejected for the second time a proposal to liberalize the Episcopal marriage canon, permitting divorced persons to remarry upon approval of a diocesan bishop.

Earlier convention action resulted in adoption of a postwar policy calling for international collaboration, racial equality and government aid to employment in peacetime, and authorization of continued efforts toward eventual organic unity with the Presbyterian Church.

Farm Hand and Girl Held in Triple Slaying

William A. Morrell

Janice Graham

CHARDON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A 20-year-old farm hand and his girl companion were returned to Pennsylvania today for questioning in a triple slaying at the Everett Wilson Dairy near Mercer.

Sheriff Stuart M. Harland of Geauga County said the youth, William Morrell, admitted he strangled Mrs. Helen Wilson, 46 and shot her mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Wilson, 78, and Robert McKay, 70, another farm hand, Thursday.

Pennsylvania state police, accompanied by Edwin C. Moon, Mercer County district attorney, came for the couple less than 12 hours after they were seized while hitch-hiking west.

The girl, Janice Graham, 20, also employed on the farm, said Morrell forced her to accompany him on his flight in McKay's automobile, the sheriff reported.

"I was chasing young steers all morning and just got mad," Sheriff Harland said the youth told him, "I didn't like them anyway."

"I'm sorry about it now. Guess I just didn't know what I was doing. But no use crying about it now," the sheriff quoted Morrell as saying.

World Bank Proposed For Post-War Salvage

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A U. S. Treasury proposal for a $10,000,000,000 world bank to help war-ravaged lands get on their feet was hailed in at least one capital today as another move toward insuring the peace.

Immediately from Lisbon, Portugal—the neutral outlet for many fleeing Europeans—came this reaction:

"It is a colossal effort that only a powerful, rich nation, full of generosity and capable of large initiative, could realize."

The statement in the Lisbon newspaper Diario De Lisboa added that "peace would be another war just as dreadful and dangerous."

ALLIED PATROLS HAVE CROSSED VOLTURNO RIVER

German Resistance Against British Eighth Army Eases As Result of Failure

By NOLAND NORGAAARD
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Allied patrols have fought their way across the lower Volturno River in Italy where they are probing the strong enemy defenses on the north bank, and the Germans have flung another division—the third armored Grenadiers—into battle to hold that river line, Allied headquarters announced today.

The strategic railway and highway center of Caserta, 16 miles above Naples on the southern side of the Volturno, was captured as the Fifth Army mopped up the last enemy resistance below the Volturno and Calore rivers, official reports disclosed.

American and British patrols forcing the Volturno encountered brisk small arms and light artillery fire. A headquarters officer emphasized that front reports indicated no major body of the Fifth Army had yet penetrated across the stream, and declared "there is every indication the Germans intend to try their best to hold there."

On the Adriatic front, the fighting died down somewhat after three days of heavy battling in which Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army knocked out half of 30 attacking Nazi tanks, including huge Mark VI Tigers, thrown in the battle in an attempt to break the British hold on Termoli.

In the air, the Northwest African force smashed out again yesterday and Thursday at airfields in Greece, Crete, and the Dodecanese. It was a double-ply attack supported by RAF bombers of the Middle East hitting at Heraklion in Crete and Calatoni in Rhodes.

Heavy and medium bombers from Northwest Africa pounded Nazi air bases at Eleusis near Athens and Heraklion yesterday, and on Thursday Liberators hammered the airfield at Kasteli in Crete and Maritza in Rhodes.

The RAF hit Heraklion Thursday and Calatoni last night, losing one plane in those and other attacks.

Allied medium bombers and fighters supporting the British on the Adriatic destroyed 20 motor vehicles and damaged a bridge at Palata 12 miles west of Termoli, and RAF night bombers hit road junctions and bridges at Isernia and Fomina northeast and north of Naples last night.

The Allied communique said the Fifth and Eighth armies advanced two to three miles in their sectors despite heavy rains and floods in some areas. The weather continued bad.

The German Third Panzer Grenadiers now battling along the Volturno were once regarded as a crack combat unit.

(The Paris radio reported that Allied forces in Italy now total 20 divisions, and said "a considerable American naval force" had bombarded German positions near Vasto, 15 miles above Termoli on the Adriatic.)

Captured documents disclosed that the fierce German counterattacks against Termoli were made under Nazi high command orders to "retake the port and drive the British back into the sea at all costs."

The Germans paid a high cost with the veteran 16th armored

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Sen. Chandler's Conclusions About Japan Nothing New To Experienced Observers

The warning by Senator Chandler (D-Ky) — just back from the five-senator inspection trip to the war theaters—that the Japanese may move their seat of empire to the Asiatic mainland will strike many observers as a rather startling conclusion.

This column long ago called attention to the possibility that surrender by Japan proper wouldn't by any means necessarily guarantee the capitulation of the Japanese militarists and their great armies on the continent. My point was that the Nipponese generals in command of the armies of occupation in China, being in control of a vast new empire, might decide to ignore orders from the home government and carry on.

However, that's different from the idea of transferring the Jap seat of empire to China. Removal of the government and the person of the Mikado from Tokyo to the continent would represent a veritable cataclysm in the history of Nippon—a loss of face which would almost call for national hara-kiri. Still, it can't be denied that cataclysms have happened in this war, and might happen again.

The senator says he has good reason to believe that some of Japan's heavy industry already has been moved to the Asiatic mainland, besides the concentration of industry in Manchukuo. That's a true bill. The Japanese have transferred some vital war industries to Chinese territory where advantage is being taken of natural resources.

Moreover, during a decade of control in Manchukuo the Japs have developed both resources and manufacturing. The picture in China is not clear, but the invaders have made some progress there. In any event, the 10 percent of China which they have overrun (apart from Manchukuo, Outer Mongolia, and Tibet proper) represent the country's richest territory, both in natural resources and industrially.

Allied strategy apparently depends heavily on bombing of the Japanese mainland to reduce Nippon to submission. If we had suitable air bases from which we could reach Tokyo, Osaka and other cities, we should be about the job right now. The rub is we haven't the bases, and Tokyo there is comparatively safe for the moment.

The impending Allied offensive against the Japanese is calculated to produce the necessary bases in due course. That's one of the reasons for the projected invasion of Burma. We want to get equipment and air support to the Chinese so that the Japanese can be forced back towards the coast, giving us the air bases we need. Recognition of this danger accounts for the present heavy Jap offensive in east China.

When finally we are able to bring the full force of our aerial striking power against the cities of little Japan, we shall rip them out by the roots. The day will arrive when Japan proper will have to surrender. But will the Japanese war lords on the continent, with their great armies, obey any call to lay down their arms?

Certainly it will be a huge temptation to them to carry on. They have a million troops in Manchukuo, and another million or more in occupied China. They are in control of a wealth of organized resources. It would be a terrific job to conquer them by arms and drive them into the sea. Yet we may have to do exactly that.

Mount Etna, Sicilian volcano, is between 10,750 and 10,850 feet above sea level.

Inspection of the 43 school buses in the Fayette County school system will be held next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Supt. W. J. Hilty said today. The inspection is made by the State Highway patrol on request of the State Department of Education.

Primary concern of the inspection this year will be of safety devices carried by each bus, with particular emphasis on fire extinguishers which must be carried on each bus. Previous inspections had merely made certain that the extinguishers contained liquid, but this year each extinguisher will be tried out to make sure the liquid is the proper sort for the type fire extinguisher used. In past years, Hilty said, some of the extinguishers had been filled with water.

First aid equipment and flares on all buses will also be inspected. Emphasis is also placed on maintenance and repair of parts which can be kept in good condition now despite scarcity of certain materials, Hilty said.

Schedules for inspection are as follows:

Wednesday at 9 A. M. on the Fayette County Fairgrounds, buses from Union and Jasper school districts; Wednesday at 12:30 P. M. at the Fairgrounds, buses from Green, Concord and Perry school districts.

Thursday at 9 A. M. at Jeffersonville, Jeffersonville and Paint school district buses; Thursday at 12:30 P. M. at Bloomington, buses from Bloomington, Marion and Children's Home school districts.

Friday at 9 A. M. at Madison Mills, Madison school district buses and Friday at 12:30 P. M. at Good Hope, buses from Wayne school district.

Carries the Mail

SEVEN OR EIGHT MILES is the daily stint of the average mailman, according to statistics, but Gloria Newell, mail girl at the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft plant in Downey, Cal., has proved she outdoes her male competitors. The pedometer strapped to her shapely leg showed she walks 18.7 miles a day. (Inset)

BE YOUR OWN WEATHER PROPHET!

Stars, Moon, Wind and Clouds Help—Especially Clouds

By MARY BRANDEL HOPKINS
Central Press Correspondent
WAR HASN'T CHANGED WEATHER.

But it has brought a noticeable change in the amount of public predicting about that sometimes unpredictable cut-up we call weather.

Uncle Sam sees to it that there is no "aid or comfort to the enemy" in the abbreviated forecasts the United States Weather Bureau gives out to the public. Your own personal work and play plans, however, may continue to be quite as dependent upon weather conditions as they ever were in the halcyon days prior to December 7, 1941. Your guess as to what the weather is going to do next is as good as the next fellow's if you know how to interpret clues Mother Nature so generously distributes.

When she gives you a clear night, with steady, rather than twinkling, light from the stars, and a bright, crisp outlined moon (if any), she also intends to give you good weather.

The ring around the moon, attributed to ice crystals in the atmosphere, suggests wet weather, accompanied by wind. The closer the ring to the moon the sooner you may expect the downpour. A moon plainly visible by day signifies little moisture in the upper atmosphere.

Dew Means No Rain

Chances are "When the dew is on the grass, rain will never come to pass." If the air is warm and humid, grass will remain dry in late evening or early morning, which foretells rain in the near future.

There's a little more truth than poetry in the proverb, "Red sky at morning, sailors take warning; "Red sky at night, sailor's delight."

And likewise in the saying, "An evening grey and morning red,"

"Will send the shepherd wet to bed."

Beliefs in the tell-tale color of the sky are based on the effect of light on dust and moisture particles in the air, which are responsible for sky coloring. The drier the atmosphere, the paler the sky color; hence a red morning sky points to more moisture in the atmosphere than a green or yellowish sky.

Gray sky indicates a layer of atmosphere saturated with tiny water particles, which reflect every color. As colors tend to cancel each other, the resulting tone is gray.

The paradox of gray morning sky being followed by clearing weather results from the fact that the grayness ordinarily is but a thin layer formed of vapor from lakes, rivers or dew, and is rapidly evaporated by the sun.

Evening red is considered a fair weather sign only because it is less damp than a gray sky. Gray evening skies signify that dust particles in the air are saturated with moisture to a great height, and presumably rain will fall next day.

Watch That Smoke

Observe smoke. When rising smoke comes down to earth again through humid air, rain is in store. In clear air the smoky cloud of soot particles floats quickly off into nothingness.

It's a fair gamble to trust the adage, "When the wind is in the East, 'Tis neither good for man nor beast."

Expect a change in weather, usually within 24 hours, if distant hills and objects can be clearly seen.

Take weather tips from clouds. Clouds moving in opposite directions at different levels are tell-tales of rain to come.

More good weather, at least for about 24 hours, are foretold by cirrus clouds of the thread-like structure and feather-like form. If they move rapidly, storms may be approaching 24 to 48 hours away.

Cirrus-stratus is the scientific name for a very high thin sheet of whitish cloud which gives the sky a milky appearance or looks like a tangled web. "If clouds look as if scratched by a hen, get ready to reef your topsail then." This type will be followed by general increase in cloudiness and perhaps rain within 24 hours. It often produces halos around the sun and moon.

When sun or moon is seen to gleam dimly through a cloud sheet as through ground glass, alto-stratus clouds are warning of a storm to come. At other times this gray mist hiding the sun may form early in the day and vanish before noon.

"Mackerel sky" is known to meteorologists as cirro-cumulus clouds. They consist of small rounded masses or white flakes arranged in groups and often in lines, like the markings on fish. "A mackerel sky is not 24 hours dry," according to legend.

Larger, rounded masses, white or grayish, arranged in groups or lines, and often crowded together so that the cloudlets join are known as alto-cumulus. These are types which precede thunderstorms.

Large, lumpy masses or rolls of dull gray cloud, frequently covering the whole sky, particularly in winter, are the strato-cumulus type, not generally associated with rain or snow. Between the dense dark rolls, blue sky may peep through.

Steady rain or snow usually falls from a dense layer of dark, shapeless cloud with ragged edges which have been named nimbus or rain clouds.

Welcome signs of fair weather are the fleecy cumulus or wool-pack clouds.

When the fleecy cumulus begin to flatten and darken at the base, but with great masses rising above in the form of mountains, towers, or anvils, they are merging into cumulo-nimbus, the thunder or shower clouds, from whose base local showers of rain or snow, and occasionally hail, fall. The fact that fair weather cumulus can merge into great masses of shower clouds is basis for the saying:

"In the morning mountains, In the evening fountains."

Try being your own weather prophet. It's fascinating and helpful. Don't expect to rate 100 percent on your guesses. Even the weather bureau can't be right more than 80 percent of the time!

GOOD NEWS—Feathery streaks of clouds such as these usually give dependable promise of good weather.

Paris Airfield Where Washington CH Man Stationed in First War Bombed by Nephew

When Sgt. Jack E. Post was sent to England Walter S. Fults, his uncle, jokingly told him to save a piece of the airfield near Paris where he was stationed during the first World War for him to take care of later. But Sgt. Post, now decorated with the Army air medal and two oak leaf clusters, writes that he can't save it now. . . and sent a photograph as evidence.

"We sort of took care of that on my fifth mission—that was the day I won my air medal. . . They still rather prize that field because they sure flew up a lot of defenses, including flak. Boy, that's mean stuff—I'd rather face a Jerry any day," Sgt. Post wrote.

Since being awarded the air medal as recognition of having participated in five bombing missions over enemy occupied territory, Sgt. Post has received two oak leaf clusters and is due for a third when he completes his 20th mission. He received the first two clusters on completion of his tenth and 15th raids.

The airfield was heavily bombed by flying fortresses on August 16. The Army Air Force photograph which Sgt. Post sent Fults shows volumes of smoke billowing up from the hangars and administration buildings of the base, which is termed an "important Nazi airdrome near Paris, one of two principal bases for the supply of new aircraft and maintenance for all German fighter units on the Western Front."

Sgt. Post is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Post, former residents of Fayette County who moved to Columbus, where Sgt. Post was born and attended school. Post, now 22, calls the old Post farm on the Creek Road near Washington C. H., left to him and his brother after the death of his parents, home. His brother, Robert, is in Florida, where his aunt, Mrs. Arthur Miller, lives.

Sgt. Post writes of seeing King George and Queen Elizabeth on Sunday, September 24. He attended the "Battle of Britain" day services at St. Paul's cathedral in London and the king and queen were there also, he writes.

He told the crew of his Flying Fortress about Fults' adventures in the air force during World War I, he writes adding that "they were quite interested. Whenever a P-47 or a 'Spit' lands at our base, they're more of an attraction than our own Forts are. That's the way your letter appealed to them, I guess."

"The weather isn't all foggy as moving pictures would have you believe. It is about the same as fall weather that you have back there. Our electric suits keep up pretty warm, though (when flying at high altitudes). Thirty below zero isn't anything to be sniffed at—and that's no joke, either."

At the close of his letter, Sgt. Post writes: "Sorry I can't send you a swastika yet, but don't forget the first one I chalked up is for me. The rest are on the house."

FARMERS URGED TO SAVE SOYBEAN CROP FOR SEED; HARVESTING IS UNDERWAY

Professor Lewis suggests that Ohio growers who have beans of the varieties named which are harvested in good condition to notify elevators or seed dealers if the grower himself does not wish to store beans for seed. Soybeans saved for seed should be tested for germination early in the winter. County agricultural agents will provide printed instructions on drying and storing soybeans.

The only persons who may obtain point-free meat which has been custom slaughtered are livestock producers, it was said. With respect to 4-H Club livestock, it was pointed out that the member is a producer if the livestock has been kept and fed for 60 days immediately preceding slaughter or increases its weight by at least 35 percent.

BRICKER URGES PLAN NOW FOR SERVICEMEN'S RETURN

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9 —(P)—Gov. John W. Bricker says every community in the state must plan now for the servicemen's return to civilian life in order to avoid "too great a shock when this readjustment comes."

The executive told a meeting of the Ohio Development and Publicity commission "it is not too early to consider problems that will confront us immediately after the war."

Drake's first Pennsylvania well at Titusville, England, in 1859, started the flow of low cost crude oil.

On the Farm

HOSPITALIZATION PROGRAM GROWING

Nearly 500 Group Policies in Fayette County

More than 22,000 county Farm Bureau members are protected with hospitalization insurance, of which nearly 500 are in Fayette County.

R. W. Wood, in charge of the group insurance, states that after 20 months the Farm Bureau's hospitalization plan is being offered in 73 of the 88 counties.

"In February 1942 county Farm Bureaus in cooperation with the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company inaugurated a hospitalization plan which has brought payments to insured individuals totaling in excess of one-third of a million dollars," Wood said. "The cost has been considerably under that which would be required were the same members to act as individuals."

Wood explained that the organization of such a plan in a county starts with thorough discussion in Farm Bureau Advisory Councils and meetings. When 75 percent of the membership makes written application for the insurance, the county Farm Bureau applies to the insurance company for a master policy and certificates for each insured person. All contributions and claims are handled through the local Farm Bureau. In years of few losses, dividends are returned to the county.

Wood would think that this experience would have cured it from trying to reach over the fences, but it didn't. It didn't reach long over a hog barb though. I had respect for it.

THE WORK OF COUNTY AGENT

While they have a very important work to any community they surely have the peak load now, so put them on your list as one of the group of men you will conserve, during the period when their services are so greatly needed in the war effort.

A county agent covers a county, and tries to, and does do, a good job of serving it; but the extra duties make his work very hard, and almost impossible at times; so it will be wise for all of us, who are using the service, to do our part in conserving it.

FERRETS

I learned a lot about ferrets this week from a friend who has two that he has found very valuable in keeping the rats away from his home and place of business.

When we went out to see them, they were asleep in a small box in a wire cage, for it was cool, and they had just had their breakfast of bread and milk, and they like to sleep awhile after a meal like that. Hamburger and meat scraps used to be a part of the ration, but hamburger is rationed and meat scraps are hard to get, so most of the meat is out of the ration. It is replaced by some cooked cereals.

When I asked about how they hunted rats, I learned that one had just come out of a hole, where it had been all night; and that when the ferrets run through rat holes a little, the rats leave. Some of them pay their board bill before they go too, by furnishing the ferrets some rat steaks.

NEW TYPE OF MINE USED BY GERMANS

Non-metallic Device Was Costly at Salerno

BOSTON, Oct. 9 —(P)—Lieut. Walter A. Reynolds, USCG, of New London, Conn., who was aboard the first coast guard landing craft to enter Salerno harbor, told today of a new type German land mine encountered on the battle-scarred beaches.

He said the land mines were made "almost entirely of plastic and concrete to escape our electric mine detectors."

Lieut. Reynolds pointed out that in the past troops had been able to move across enemy territory only as fast as the mine detectors could go.

"At Salerno," he said, "that speed was reduced by the necessity of prodding into the ground with rods and bayonets for these non-metallic mines."

About a dozen fisheries provide almost three-quarters of the nation's total normal catch.

WHAT ABOUT RUSSIA?

Joseph Stalin appears to hold the big cards in the game he is playing with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, both of whom are trying to find out whether or not the big Russian is bluffing.

An important step was taken in Washington when the President accepted the resignation of Sumner Welles of the State Department and made the unexpected selection of E. R. Stettinius as the new Undersecretary. If all goes well Stettinius will accompany Secretary Hull and top-notch U. S. and British statesmen on another "mission to Moscow." Stalin is generally described as a realist. He will understand Stettinius, who has administered Lend-Lease and supplied the Russians with billions of dollars worth of American war machines and materials and supplies that made it possible for the Red Army to turn the tides of battle and drive Hitler and his invaders on the way out of Russia. Mr. Stalin has already said "thank you" for that, but at the same time he has criticized the war operations of the United Nations, while sidestepping all efforts of the heads of America and Great Britain to bring about a face-to-face conference with Roosevelt and Churchill. Are the Russians going to stop fighting when they get to Poland, or are they going to join the United Nations and meet in Berlin?

There are a lot of other questions involved including the future course of Russia after Victory.

The general disposition in Washington and London toward Russia has been very patient, tolerant, and hopeful that all will turn out well in the end. But the British and American Governments have reached the point where they are insisting on plain understandings with the Russian ally who is fighting the same enemies in Europe that we are.

The situation as it exists at present is serious, and that's one of the strategic reasons why Stettinius was appointed to back-up Hull, and the American and British delegations in negotiations with Moscow.

DOWN TO THE GUNWALS

Farmers and the food sellers find themselves in a boat which is being so overloaded with price restrictions and regulations that it is close to foundering.

Commenting on this situation, Albert S. Goss, President of the National Grange, in a recent address said:

"Food is rapidly becoming the world's number one problem. We are waking up to the fact that the United States has not been feeding itself for the past ten years; that we have imported more food than we have exported. Because of some very unwise OPA policies, we are prevented from raising the maximum amount of needed food. The average farm prices are high enough. Some commodities may be too high, while others are definitely too low.

"The OPA is supplanting the laws of nature with the laws of the swivel chair. The mistake is made of violating all laws of economics by trying to force all prices

WASHINGTON—The appointment of W. (for William) Averell Harriman as ambassador to Russia confirms what has been suspected for a long time—that the Administration is convinced the language Communist Russia understands best is that which comes from the mouths of two-fisted American business men and financiers.

Tall, slightly stooped, handsome, Gary Cooperish Harriman is one of Russia's favorite American people. He has been since he went there in September, 1941, looked over the defenses against the Nazi hordes then rolling eastward, and told Josef Stalin that our flow of tanks, munitions and food under Lend-Lease would be "limited only by the problems of transport."

He came back to tell the United States generally and the military and Administration in particular, that the Russians could hold out against the Axis. Military experts were giving the Russians 90 days.
A rich man's son, whose heritage meant railroads, banking and Wall Street empires, Harriman could have coasted through life. Instead, when he graduated from Yale in 1913, he went to work in the grimy Union Pacific railroad shops in Omaha, Neb.
Without skipping any lessons, Harriman rose to chairman of the board of Union Pacific, chairman of executive committee of Illinois Central, an official of Brown Bros., Harriman and Co., in Wall Street, a member of the board of directors of the Guaranty Trust Co., New York, and Western Union.
Harriman didn't confine his interests to the counting houses. By 1928, he was one of nation's great polo players, a member of the United States international team. His Genesee Valley farms turned out some of the finest racehorses. A bushel basket

CLEAN OWN HOUSE FIRST

The most popular political pastime today is planning a new postwar world. But before the United States can take any great part in such a world, it will have to set its own house in order.

Large, continuing production is the only basis for financing our government and maintaining adequate living standards and a feeling of personal security. In the United States, under a private enterprise system, living standards reached a world peak and provide real independence and security for a greater population than in other countries.

So, while planning the postwar world, our planners might as well get down to earth and consider practical plans for encouraging expansion of private enterprise at home.

Only a policy of moderate taxation after the war will encourage individual initiative. Exorbitant taxes add to the price of goods, depress employment and deter investment and risk taking.

Modern Principles of Transfusion

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
NOWADAYS with nearly all the adult population on either the giving or receiving end of blood transfusion, let us review the fundamental principles involved. The idea of blood transfusion is a very old one. As why shouldn't it be? What is more natural than to think of the benefits of giving a sick man the blood of a sound, young, healthy man? But the early experimenters ran into technical difficulties that were never solved until late in the nineteenth century.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Samuel Pepps, in his diary, records an experiment done at the Royal Society in which the blood of a sheep was transfused into the body of a man, and the man afterwards bleated when he talked. It is as well for his veracity that he doesn't say he saw this: it speaks for his gullibility. The blood of one species of animal cannot be transfused into another: it is so incompatible that death follows instantly. And that was one of the technical difficulties the early transfusers did not understand.

Blood Coagulation
Blood coagulation was another of the technical difficulties the early transfusers could not overcome. It was solved when the nature of blood coagulation was understood, and anti-coagulants which could be added to blood and prevent coagulation, such as sodium citrate, were discovered.
But the most important technical difficulty was overcome when it was found that people had different types of blood. If the blood of a person of incompatible type is given to another, one of two unfavorable things may happen—the red blood cells of the recipient will agglutinate or gather together in clumps, or they may dissolve.

These phenomena are called agglutination and hemolysis. In practice it has not been found that hemolysis is of serious enough consequence to be considered, but agglutination is. Type A blood will agglutinate the red cells of

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE
MISS SALLY insisted upon serving Brenda and Adam herself, and then eyed them lovingly as they started eating.
"I've got a Lady Baltimore cake," she said, "that I was planning to keep until Sunday. But I'm going to serve you that for dessert." She let her eyes linger on Adam's upturned face for a second, admiring him, wishing that she were young again, and that Adam were just like he was at that moment. "I remember now you always called it your favorite cake."

"Yes, m," said Adam. "But my folks were pretty frugal and the cake was far too expensive and hard to make for their budget and our cook."

"Nonsense!" said Miss Sally. "Anyway, you're going to get some today. You like it, too, don't you, Brenda?"

"I adore it," said Brenda. "It's one of the things Aunt Mary's going to teach me to make."

"Shucks and molasses!" said Miss Sally. "Aunt Mary's no cake-maker. If you want to learn how to make a good Lady Baltimore cake, you come to me!" She patted Adam's shoulder. "If that's Adam's favorite cake, you ought to know how to make it as it should be made."

"Of course," said Brenda. "And thanks a lot."

Miss Sally left them then to hurry to the cashier's desk, and Brenda and Adam went on with their meal. Everything was delicious and they enjoyed it in spite of the fact that they both kept thinking about the Johnson farm, bringing up the subject again and again.

"I keep thinking," said Brenda, "about a newspaper story I read the other day. A story about some of the country landing on an isolated shore and burying explosives—stuff they intended using later to blow up a fort—and a factory that was turning out war materials. Maybe it's silly of me, Adam, but I kept wondering if—well, if someone might be doing that out at the Johnson farm."

"It's silly of you," said Adam. "I'm being silly too. Because I've been wondering the same thing. Maybe I ought to drive out and see if the boat is anchored up the river some place."

"But you might have to drive for miles," said Brenda. "And Mrs. Platt's expecting us."

"Yes, I know," said Adam, remembering that note the watchmen had found. He took a long swallow of Miss Sally's delicious coffee. "If it weren't for Peter Platt I'd ditch that pie and turn detective during my off moments."

Brenda slid her hand across the table and touched Adam's.

"Don't let it upset you, my dear," she said gently. "And you can count on me to do all I can to help."

"Thanks," said Adam. He twisted his fingers around Brenda's, and liked the way her warm hand felt in his. It made his heart beat a little faster—made him feel a deep longing for the time when people could lead normal lives, when they didn't suspect everything and everybody, and when factories were turning out tools for machinery of destruction. He also thought about the Biblical verse that had to do with beating swords into plowshares—and sighed.

"You're a great girl, Brenda," he said presently. "I'm going to miss having you around when you go back to New York."

"Which reminds me," said Brenda, "that the newspaper I worked for up there is after me to cut my stay short and return. So many men are being called, it seems there's a shortage of people on the staff."

"Are you going to do it—cut your stay short?" said Adam.

"I don't know just yet," said Brenda. "It depends on—a lot of things."

They finished their meal shortly after that, and walked on over to the high school building. Most of those who were to appear in the play were already there.

Jack Vinton and Ruth Morehouse were sitting on the stage, looking very much as though they had been quarreling.

"Why don't you do something about those two?" Brenda asked Adam as they went down the aisle.

"How do you mean?" said Adam.

"Get them married."

"Do you think that's wise—with Jack likely to be in the Army any day?"

"Of course it's wise."

"But a lot of war weddings turn out badly," said Adam. "After the excitement is over, the men don't seem so glamorous out of uniform, and the girls don't seem so desirable."

"That applies to hasty marriages between people who scarcely know each other," Brenda retorted. "Jack and Ruth have known each other since babyhood. Ruth knows what he looks like out of a uniform—and he'll probably look even handsomer in one."

"Maybe you're right," said Adam. "But I'm no matchmaker."

Jack and Ruth saw them, and Jack grinned.

"Maybe my prayers are going to be answered after all," he said.

"Ruth shrugged and said, 'Amen!'"

"You mean you're not worried?" Jack asked her.

"No, not especially," Ruth said. But she WAS worried. She had never seen Brenda Leigh look more attractive. "She has to be with Adam a lot, now that she's got a hand in producing the play."

"Just the same," said Jack. "I claim they are as much made for each other as you and I."

Some other players arrived then, and Mrs. Platt began bustling about, managing things.

"All right, everyone to his place," she announced.

Susan Potter stepped close to Adam to speak before the rehearsal began.

"Thanks for being so nice to the pantry woman," she said. "She's a good worker, and was terribly upset over the sugar and salt episode."

"Yes, so I noticed," said Adam a bit dryly. "She had a hard time explaining such a stupid accident—mixing the two when refilling the two jars."

"Poor thing," said Susan. "She does so want to hold on to her job, on account of her nephew."

"What's he got to do with it?"

"She's crazy about him," Susan replied, "and she's been helping him to buy a motor boat. He's got some sort of idea about making money taking people up the river to hunt in the winter, and down the river to fish in the summer."

"I see," said Adam. Greenish colored boat . . . passing the old Leigh place. The pantry woman helping her nephew. Putting two and two together, what did you get? You got a lot of headaches, that's what you got. "Susan, do something for me," he went on presently. "Keep your eyes and ears open every moment, and find out all you can about this nephew of the pantry woman's."

Mrs. Platt called out once more, and the rehearsal began.

America Does Have Freedom of Press

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles written by former chiefs of Associated Press bureaus in Axis capitals. Written in observance of National Newspaper Week, they describe the conditions of the press under dictatorships. Today's writer, Max Hill was a prisoner of the Japanese for six months; he now is on a lecture tour.)

By MAX HILL
(Former chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Tokyo.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Kikuchi-San sat huddled before the fire in his village home, warming his hands over the glowing charcoal, and reading about the war in China.

One of his sons came home only as a small white box of ashes, one of thousands of Japanese who died in that battle. His second son was in a hospital, a leg shot away by a Chinese Guerilla.

The Japanese know of what happens in the world only through the small trickle of news that filters through one of the most rigid censorships in the world. And through a word-of-mouth channel which can't be shut off no matter how hard the government tries.

Kikuchi-San isn't an exception in Japan. He is the rule. He knows that Japan is not winning the war in China—and may never win it. And that Japan is on the defensive in her war against the Anglo-American powers. The government never tells him what is happening, but he knows the trend of events, just the same. Let me give you another example.

One day in Sugamo prison in Tokyo, where I was held for six months after Pearl Harbor, Inspector Takenara told me about the battle in the Java Sea.

Inspector Takenara is a small, bullet-headed man, with sharp black eyes and a quick, agile mind. First of all, he told me about the battle, grinning while he spoke. He said that 17 Allied vessels had been sunk, and that only one Japanese destroyer had been damaged. Then he asked me what I thought about it. I told him that it was impossible for any battle to be that one-sided.

"That's what we think, too," he replied, "but that's what they announced." It was one of the few times I ever heard him laugh.

This is what censorship has done to Japan. The people no longer believe the stories they read in the newspapers, and are told on the radio. A steward on the Asama Maru, the ship which took me to Lourenco Marques, in Portuguese East Africa, even said he didn't think the Japanese had bombed Pearl Harbor.

Unfortunately, both stories were true, but the Japanese have had so many years of a muzzled and abject press that they no longer trust any government announcement.

The only name you can give Japan's censorship, both for her own newspapermen and the foreign correspondents, is that it is blind. Japan's newspapermen see only a small part of the copy which is filed by Domei, the official Japanese news agency. Most of it is held up and turned over to the army, the navy and the foreign office.

In New York I used to wonder at the tremendous volume of copy filed by the Domei correspondents. And when I arrived in Tokyo, I wondered all the more—because so little of it ever appeared in any newspaper. The Domei correspondents were just using their agency as a vehicle to keep their government informed—not the public.

A foreign correspondent in Tokyo turns his copy over to the central postoffice, and from there it is routed to the censor. From that time on, no correspondent can find out what happens. The message may be sent, and again, the entire dispatch may be spiked.

I once had a high government official tell me he could clear the situation up, if Japan would just admit that she had a censorship. But the official answer to all inquiries was that we were free to send what we wanted. This is typical of Japanese duplicity. If you don't admit that you have a censorship, it doesn't exist.

After I was in prison, and got a glimpse of the censored portions of my file, I found that thousands of words had been eliminated. But the Associated Press was charged for the full message. The rest just got lost somewhere between Tokyo and New York.

In America, we have censorship by co-operation between the press and radio and the government. In Japan the weapon is coercion, backed up with prison and a club.

Combined Meet Is Held at First Baptist Church

A combined meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society and the Guild was held at the First Baptist Church, Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. Harry Wood, chairman of the hostesses committee. Others serving on the committee were Mrs. Myers Kimmey, Mrs. Helen Mossbarger, Mrs. Raymond Godfrey, Mrs. Catherine Gault and Mrs. Ernest Brookover from the Missionary Society, Miss Mary Elizabeth Wood, chairman of the Guild committee, also Miss Clara Belle Robinson, Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning and Miss Mary Jane Townsley.

A short business session was conducted by the president of the missionary society, Mrs. John W. Case, and devotionals were given by Mrs. W. H. Wilson.

Following this, Miss Mary Elizabeth Wood gave an interesting address on her trip through Mexico, this past summer, and she displayed a number of curios she had collected while there. Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning then capably sang two well-known Mexican songs, which were very enthusiastically received by the audience of sixty-five members and guests present.

The guests were then invited to the lecture room, and a most delightful tea hour was enjoyed. Mrs. John W. Case, president of the Missionary Society and Miss Clara Belle Robinson, president of the Guild, presided at the tea tables, which were laden with numerous and tempting tea delicacies. The table was appropriately decorated in the Mexican theme, being centered with a bowl of fall fruit and flanked by vases of talisman roses and tall burning tapers.

During the tea hour, Miss Mazie Kessler, violinist and Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning, at the piano, played appropriate Mexican numbers.

Mrs. Wayne Dowler, August Bride, Is Feted with Shower

Mrs. Worley Flint and Miss Grace Wade entertained with a miscellaneous shower, Thursday evening, at the home of Mrs. Roy Fisher in Jeffersonville, fetty Mrs. Wayne Dowler (former Margaret Smith, of Jeffersonville) on her marriage which was an event of August.

A pink and blue color scheme was carried out in the appointments and decorations throughout the home and numerous vases of autumn garden flowers were greatly in evidence. During the evening two clever contests were presented by the hostesses causing great hilarity and amusement. Miss Marjorie Dowler was awarded the prizes for the contests. The thirty guests present then wrote out favorite recipes and presented them to the bride.

For the occasion, the lovely bride of titian beauty wore a street length frock of royal blue crepe.

The hostesses then invited the honoree and guests to the dining room, where a lovely shower of gifts, prettily arranged on the table which was centered with a miniature bride and groom and flanked by tall pink and blue tapers. For her gorgeous array of gifts, the charming bride graciously responded.

At the close of the evening, the hostesses served dainty and tempting refreshments, climaxing the delightful affair.

WELCOME WORN OUT BY GUEST AT HOUSE

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP) — This is the story about a polecat who couldn't climb a pole but could walk a plank.

Wayne Longmire discovered the unwelcome guest in his basement. He called in the exterminating people, who failed to get it out. He talked with an authority on such things and was advised to treat the cat nice.

So Longmire fed and watered the skunk for days and Mr. skunk wouldn't leave, seemingly enjoying his eats and warm room. But Longmire, a country boy at heart, wouldn't give up. He put a plank from the basement floor to the ground level window.

Next morning the polecat was still inside. Longmire scratched his head, nailed cleats on the board and waited. Next morning the guest was gone.

A mouse couldn't get in that basement now. It's plugged tight.

FIRE, JUST LIKE CHARITY, BEGINS AT CHIEF'S HOME

Portsmouth, O. (AP) — Assistant fire Chief Ray Elwell has learned that fires, like charity, often begin in one's own home.

Answering a call while he was on duty at a local fire station, the official was greeted with an excited "Come home quick; the house is on fire!"

In his routine tone of inquiry, Elwell asked, "Who's speaking?" The voice which then shouted "Me!" had a familiar ring—it was Elwell's wife.

The first settlement in Rhode Island was made in 1636 by Roger Williams.

COMING FEATURES AT THE THEATERS

FAYETTE THEATRE

Youth will have its fling on the screen of the Fayette Theatre when "Best Foot Forward," M-G-M's new technicolor musical, will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Starring Lucille Ball in the role of a Hollywood movie star who attends the prom of Winsocki Military Academy as a publicity stunt only to find herself hiding from public view for the duration of the dance, the tune-filled film is a delightful comedy of prep school kids. The film is chock full of song hits, both from the original play and new ones added for the film version. Harry James and his Music Makers perform several instrumental numbers in addition to their regular chores.

A dramatic story of intrigue and romance with a background of the present war, "Squadron Leader X," will be shown at the Fayette Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, with Eric Portman and Ann Dvorak in the co-starring roles. The film is essentially the portrait of a Nazi airman groomed by the Nazi propagandists as an "ace," who beneath the veneer of his arrogance has a cowardly streak which asserts itself when he has the greatest need of courage and spirit.

Friday and Saturday a double bill will be shown at the Fayette Theatre. First to be shown will be "The Nasty Nuisance," starring Bobby Watson, Joe Devlin, Johnny Arthur, Jean Porter, Ian Keith, Henry Victory, Ed Lewis and Abe Kashey. Africa laughs... and you'll hold your sides! Schickelgruber (Hitler) visit his troops and gets mixed up with a tropical chieftain with magic up his sleeve!

Lions Beaten, 13-0, By Tigers

The Blue Lions lost their fourth consecutive start of the 1943 football season when they dropped a hard fought game to the Greenfield Tigers by a score of 13 to 0. It was a tough battle from start to finish with the Lions suffering injuries to Bill Rudduck, O'Brien and Gray, O'Brien was used on only a few plays and it was evident that his knee was not in shape. Rudduck suffered a knee injury that caused him to be carried from the field in the third quarter.

Greenfield scored in the first and third quarters and was well on the way for a third touchdown when the whistle ended the game with Greenfield in possession of the ball, second down and five yards from the goal line.

Two Lions scoring threats were broken up in the first and second quarters. In the first frame the Lions advanced the ball to the Greenfield 32 when Watts intercepted a Rudduck pass on the 25.

Late in the second quarter following a 15 yard penalty against the Tigers, Mercer kicked to Mitchell on the 50 who returned it to the 32. Rudduck ran 11 yards for a first down. He fumbled but recovered for a 1 yard loss and Gray added 6. Rudduck lost a yard, setting the ball down on the Greenfield 16 yard line. A 15 yard penalty on WHS for holding placed the ball back on the 31.

Greenfield scored late in the first period after Rudduck fumbled on his own 11 yard line. White recovered for Greenfield and Taylor went through to the 3. Williams moved it up to the 1. On the third down Williams fumbled but the ball was recovered by Pierce on the Washington 26. On a quick opening play Mercer ran through to score. Watts' kick was good and the score was 7 to 0. In the third quarter Taylor quick-kicked to the Washington

20. Two plays later Curry's kick was blocked and Greenfield took possession of the ball on the Washington 23. Williams was stopped for no gain but Payne raced around his own left end for 23 yards that separated him from the goal line. Watts' kick for extra point was not good. Kicking was pretty evenly matched with the Tigers averaging 29 1/2 yards per punt while the Lions averaged 28. The Lion offense lacked the punch necessary to plow through a stubborn Tiger line and fumbles were costly, coming as they did at crucial points in the game. Payne, Mercer and Williams did most of the ball carrying for Greenfield with Mercer heaving one of the passes that was good for 19 yards. The win was the first of the season for Greenfield. The Tigers had lost previously to Bexley and London.

Next week the Blue Lions meet Hillsboro at Gardner Park in a "home coming" game.

Sell-out Crowd is in Prospect For First Game in St. Louis

By SID FEDER

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—(P)—The Mount City, all prettied up for the travelling World Series troupe, had a hot quiz program popping today over whether tomorrow's fourth game of the big show would present an old left-hander number that hasn't been seen in six years or a return engagement of Spud Chandler's chuckling talent.

Not since 1937, when El Goofy Gomez and Cliff Melton were hotter than pistol packin' mamma, have two southpaws hooked up in the same World Series game.

Now, with all signs—including the numbers on the Sportsman's Park cash registers—pointing to a sellout of more than 34,000 for the Sunday scuffle, the old act may be revived, unless Joe McCarthy is only kidding about pitching Lefty Marius Russo for the New York Yankees against the Cardinals' Max Lanier in an all southpaw slinging duel.

Down two games to one and faced with what amounts to a life and death job of taking tomorrow's tilt, Manager Billy the Kid Southworth definitely is going with Lanier, the chunky curver who dropped a close opening game decision to Chandler because of some haunting hocus-pocus afield. On the other hand, Marce Joe McCarthy obviously isn't sure just what he's going to do. He points to Russo, but says he can change his mind if he wants to.

And if the boys and girls were just about split even on whether Joe would do just that. A lot of the smarties insisted that with this big one giving him a chance to gallop out to a spot where he needs only one more game to reach the paying teller's window, Joe is just playing with the Russo deal and will lead with his ace, Chandler.

Taking the other side were the experts who admit Chandler's just about the best elbow in the business, but needs the extra day's rest he'd get if he went to the movies or played gym rummy or something until Monday.

Players, their wives, writers and the usual collection of baseball brains and brawn that takes in the series reached St. Louis last evening, two hours overdue. The local cheering and chowder society was still all hopped up over the Cards' chances, despite the Yank's five-run eighth inning Thursday and got the American League champs of what looked like a one-way street to defeat. Incidentally, White Kurovski, the Cards third sacker, and Johnny Lindell, the Yank's fly-chaser, came out of that frame with a pair of sore heads, and Johnny had a chipped tooth. They collided head-on at third so hard Kurovski dropped the ball, allowing Lindell to make the bag safely in what was the turning point of the game.

Sidelights Of Game

You played a good game, Blue Lions . . . and we know you wanted to win that game . . . but maybe your first victory will be in honor of the homecoming game next week.

Some of the loyal Washington fans saved up gas just to see that game last night . . . and there was one fan present that went by bike . . . it was Ralph Mack and he can usually be seen on his way from most of the out of town games when you are coming home.

Although injured several times during the game Bill Rudduck showed that ol' fighting spirit by playing on until he was hit hard in the third quarter by four Greenfield players . . . Dick Kelly, captain of the Washington C. H. team, who was hurt last week, was one of the most interested spectators at the game and wished he could have been in there for WHS.

There were a great number of service men at this game . . . those from Washington C. H. made quite a crowd, too, and the side lines were filled to the brim. The manpower shortage is being filled by the local boys. The three consecutive junior World Series have been won by the Red Birds under three different managers, Burt Shotton piloting the club which defeated the Montreal Royals in 1941, and Eddie Dyer managing the 1942 squad. Nick Cullop is the current skipper.

Tomas De La Cruz, winner of 24 games against 11 defeats during the regular season, was the Columbus victim in the finale. The Cuban star gave up only seven hits in the seven frames he toiled, but extra base knocks spelled his doom.

The boxing championship of the 81st (Wildcat) infantry division, in training here, was won by the 321st infantry regimental team coached by Kehoe, who also starred on Maryland basketball and tennis teams.

Kehoe, undefeated in collegiate track competition, was Maryland track coach and director of physical education before the army called him as a special services and athletic officer.

division and the first parachute troop division charging strongly. An official message from Montgomery's headquarters declared the situation was "little changed" from the time the Nazis elected to start their first major stand against the British in Italy.

Other units of Montgomery's British and Canadian troops advanced from two to three miles at some points farther inland, maintaining pressure, while the mountainous central sector there was little change in the lines.

(NBC Correspondent Merill Mueller reported from a front line position with the Fifth Army that "although only our patrols have so far crossed the river (Volturno), the signal for the main force to fight its way to the other bank is expected momentarily.")

The air attacks on Crete and Rhodes were the first made under command of the Northwest African air forces on those islands. The extension of its activities farther eastward is due in part, however, to its absorption of some squadrons and bases formerly under the Middle East command.

Yesterday's raid on Eleusis, near Athens, was made by U. S. Mitchells and Lightnings based in Italy. Twenty enemy fighters were met. The bombers shot down three of them, and fighters accounted for two more.

A dozen enemy planes were parked on the airfield, and many were destroyed. Liberators bombed the airfield at Heraklion yesterday, hitting gasoline and ammunition dumps and destroying runways. Raiding Kastelli in Crete and Maritza in Rhodes the day before, the Liberators hit runways, dispersal areas and hangars, meeting no enemy fighters.

Lightnings swept over the Aegean on patrol, but had little to report. It was their first appearance over the Aegean.

Bad weather grounded most planes in Italy yesterday. In operations of the last 24 hours, seven enemy planes were shot down, and no Allied planes were reported missing.

found OWI busy in India furnishing the native press with material on how Americans live, work and eat.

"The Truman committee will expose this from the standpoint of war expenditures," Brewster said. "We eliminated Russian propaganda in this country because the Russians propagandized their way of life. Then we do the same thing in India."

Brewster and Lodge were in sharp disagreement over Lodge's statement that a million American lives could be saved if Russia gave the Allies air bases in Siberia.

With Lodge absent, Brewster led an attack in yesterday's secret meeting on this statement, declaring it was "unfortunate and inaccurate." Brewster said Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, had suggested at a conference with the tourists that the Siberian bases be mentioned.

Golf Challenge Has API Backfire

That challenge issued by a quintet of golfers at the Aeronautical Products, Inc., here backfired—and while they joined their conquerors for a dinner, they had it to pay for in the end. The winning team, captained by the API president, Alfred Jackson, was made up of Edward Adamski, Eugene Myers, Glen Roseboom, Robert Wilk and Emil Feidler. On the losing team were Charles Dunton, Howard Newman, Mervin Williams, Ellis Daugherty, Leonard Turner and Ralph Hickman.

The score cards showed the winners edged out the losers by four strokes, 220 to 224. The match was played on the Country Club course, Tony Capuana, the club pro, turned war worker, did not tee off although he was listed on the team that dared the Detroit branch of the API to come here to match mashes.

—Spying— On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 — (P)—

When Harvard let down the bars for a football game with Boston College, it just about wiped out hopes for a Yale-Harvard War Bond game this fall . . . Yale was holding open Nov. 20 for such a game with the idea that a couple more good games by the crimson "informals," coupled with the Elis' terrible showing—might make Harvard change its mind about not playing this year, but Harvard put B. C. in that date. . . . Rubby Hunter, described by the WMCA press department as "an attractive blonde" will act as spotter for the broadcasts of Columbia football games this fall. . . . that reverses the usual procedure of trying to spot an attractive blonde at the game.

A local baseball scribe, seeing a lineup of his colleagues in the Cardinals' dugout before Thursday's World Series game while the athletes were sweating through practice, stuck his head inside and asked: "Are these the fellows the Yanks have to be afraid of?" . . . one of the more critical members of the profession eyed him coldly and replied: "Sometimes."

Bob Gant has scored 17 points for Duke this fall without ever being officially in the game. With three broken bones in his right hand, Gant can't play regularly, but turns up after every touchdown to boot the extra point.

At the next meeting of the Notre Dame Club of New York, A. Jordanoff will talk about "visual training and its application to post war world construction." . . . we suppose that means how to spot a good high school half back and what to do about it when you see him.

RATIONING LIBERALIZED ON GRADE 3 CAR TIRES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9--(P)--Liberalizing tire rationing restrictions, the Office of Price Administration (OPA) announced today that beginning Oct. 13 a "special" gasoline ration will entitle passenger car owners to obtain used or grade 3 tires.

Special rations, granted by local boards, are issued for emergencies such as medical treatment, necessary food supplies and a change of residence.

When vanadium, the mineral that toughens steel, was first discovered in 1801 it was called erythronium.

COLLECTION OF GARBAGE MAY BE DONE BY CITY

Matter Now Being Given Consideration by Officials

City Manager Edwin Ducey said Saturday that collection of garbage and other refuse by the city may be the only practical solution of the situation here, which seems to have gone from bad to worse due to war conditions, with no thorough privately owned collecting system being possible under wartime restrictions and labor shortage.

He said the problem is now being studied with a view to deciding definitely whether the city shall enter into the garbage and rubbish collecting work.

Methods used by other cities are to be studied before any step toward city collection of garbage is started, and if the city does take over the problem, a charge will probably be made that will cover expense of the work.

It is not planned to carry on the work at a profit, but to render a much needed service to citizens generally.

A thoroughly organized garbage collecting system has never been put into effect here at reasonable prices, and the job has been too great for those trying to carry on the work under the present handicap, it seems.

The prospective action by the city was not regarded as any criticism of or reflection on the present private enterprise. Rather, it was interpreted as a move to meet an emergency situation which had placed such a burden on these individuals that, even through long hours and hard work, they were unable to meet.

SELDEN INSPECTION TUESDAY EVENING

Appropriate Program Is Planned for Affair

The annual inspection meeting of Selden Grange will be held next Tuesday evening, at the Conner school house. The master is urging each officer to be present and ready to assume his position promptly when "the hour of labor arrives."

The lecturer is arranging an appropriate program and she is hoping that her efforts will be rewarded by a large attendance. Inspection night should be one of the most outstanding of the entire year.

Committee for this meeting: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mark and family, Mr. Ulric Acton, Richard Pavay, Anna Alice Frayne, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Woodmansee and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rhonemus.

a distance the claiming action, then swung around and retired at high speed.

The losses increased to more than 25 the number of warships the Japanese have expended in the Solomons since MacArthur launched his current offensive June 30. They also have lost approximately 1,000 planes, more than 500 barges and uncounted hundreds of men.

(Wake Island, another focal point in the Pacific war, was reported last night in a Tokyo broadcast to have been heavily attacked on two days by American ships and planes.

(The United States Navy has remained mum since announcing at Pearl Harbor that a ship-plate attack on the Japanese-held island, more than 2,000 miles west of Hawaii, opened Oct. 5, west longitude time.

(The Tokyo broadcast as reported by CBS in New York, confirmed the attack began then—Oct. 6 Tokyo time—but said it continued the following day. Tokyo's version was that the attack by large enemy forces and "some 100-odd planes" had been repulsed. This was not confirmed by American sources).

BEWHISKERED BEGGAR ORDERED FROM CITY

A bewhiskered transient in overalls and claiming to hail from the "great northwest" was escorted to the city line Friday and ordered to get going and remain out of the city forever.

Complaints had been made that he became abusive when refused money. Police soon rounded him up after receiving the complaints.

REFUSE IS LODGED AGAINST TRESTLES

Sizeable branches of trees and other refuse, lodged against the piling in the trestlework of the D. T. & I. and C. & O. railroads over Paint Creek, near the Union Station might readily result in extensive flood damage if not removed before the next high waters occur in the stream.

The piling offers a serious obstruction to the stream as a drift catcher and this drift apparently has been piled against, the piling since the last floodwaters recurred.

22,400 DRESSINGS MADE BY RED CROSS

17,000 Remain of September-October Quota Now

With two and one-half weeks of making surgical dressings behind them now, the Red Cross Surgical dressing unit reported 22,400 two by two inch dressings completed today.

Women have been coming to the six weekly sessions at an average of 18 women per class. Although one day's session was attended by 25 women, another class found only 5 women present.

"We have room here for 40 workers" Mrs. Harold Craig, instructor at the surgical dressing unit, said today, adding that an average of at least 25 per day was still sought in order to increase output. Nearly 17,000 two by two and four by four inch dressing remain of the September-October quota and a shipment of 7200 four by eight inch dressings—part of the November quota—is now waiting to be made.

Volunteer workers are recommended that sessions run daily Monday through Friday from 1 P. M. to 4 P. M. and on Monday nights from 7 P. M. to 10 P. M. Women are requested to wear wash dresses, bring a covering for their hair and not to wear nail polish or jewelry.

CITYWIDE HAZARD SEEN BY FIRE CHIEF

Rubbish Piled Up Against Buildings Is Unsafe

"There's one fire hazard that's city-wide" Fire Chief Hall said today when speaking of his inspection of fire zones which has been going on during Fire Prevention Week, which started last Sunday.

"People all over town are piling up dry grass and leaves against garages and fences instead of having it hauled away or putting it out in the open—and that definitely constitutes a very real fire hazard," Hall said.

He explained that such easily-ignited rubbish should be hauled away immediately. "Rubbish like that can catch on fire from a spark, from a cigarette or burning rubbish in neighbor's yard."

FAYETTE COUNTY STREAMS DWINDLING

Fayette County streams are now as low, or lower than they been at any time this year, due to scarcity of rainfall.

Some of the streams are flowing very little, with indications that unless rain comes within the next week or two, some of them may stop flowing at various places.

FIREMEN STAND BY WHILE SOOT BURNS

Firemen were called to the Cherry Hotel at midnight Friday to stand by while soot was burning from a chimney.

The chimney was in good condition and the roof of the hotel was virtually fire proof, so no damage resulted from the falling embers of soot.

Soot is about the size of Vermont, but has more than ten times as many inhabitants.

The Moscow radio, quoting a Tass dispatch from Geneva, said the Germans had appointed Gestapo agents as Laval's bodyguard, and that he was regarded as a "Gestapo prisoner."

Neutral capitals for the past several weeks have received reports that Laval himself, alarmed by the fall of Mussolini and Allied victories in the Mediterranean, was attempting to drop his quiescent role.

FARM HAND AND GIRL HELD IN TRIPLE SLAYING; CAUGHT IN CHARDON

Harlan reported the younger Mrs. Wilson was choked to death with a rope in the barn and that the others were shot. The girl said she was unaware of the shooting or that Mrs. Helen Wilson had been slain. Bodies of McKay and the elder Mrs. Wilson were found in the farm house by neighbors.

Harland apprehended Morell and the girl at the home of Charles Cobb at nearby Claridon. Cobb had given them night's lodging after picking them up near Orwell, O., on his way to Cleveland and after Morell reported his car had run out of gas.

Police found McKay's wrecked automobile yesterday at Stoneboro, Pa., and conducted a wide search for the farm workers. State Police Sergeant Frank Milligan later reported another car had been stolen at Sandy Lake and asked officers in western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio to be on the lookout for it.

Miss Graham, a graduate of Mercer High School, had been employed on the Wilson farm since last January. Morell was hired last July when Wilson obtained his release from the Mercer County jail. Wilson was on a fishing trip to Canada when the slayings occurred.

Slays Battle Nazis

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(P)—Yugoslav troops have launched fierce battles in a new drive to wrest the Italian ports of Trieste and Fiume from the Germans, a Yugoslav communique announced today, and have delivered smashing blows at German forces along interior railways.

"Bitter fighting is going on in the southern suburbs of Trieste and south of the port," said the war bulletin broadcast by the free Yugoslav radio.

Italian battle fleet units, turning against their former Allies to support the Yugoslav Guerrillas, have bombarded Nazi-occupied towns on the Dalmatian coast the Bari, Italy, radio declared last night in a broadcast heard by the London daily express.

The action involving the Italian fleet was the second time Italian units were reported in use against the Germans. Some Italian fleet units were said to have assisted in ejection of the Germans from Sardinia.

KINDLES FIRE IN CITY JAIL

James Henry Keller Sent to State Hospital

James Henry Keller, 17, arrested after creating a disturbance at his home several days ago, started two fires in the city jail after smashing out some windows, Friday afternoon and Saturday morning was committed to the State Hospital at Columbus, for alleged mental illness.

Keller also did some yelling in the city jail, as he had done the day he was arrested, and became so violent that he was placed in the iron cage in the jail.

Then he removed his shirt and placing newspapers about it, set fire to the shirt and papers, with the result that smoke poured from the jail and police hurried in to remove the burning cloth and papers, Keller nearly suffocating in the meantime.

Sheriff W. H. Icenhower planned to remove Keller to the State Hospital Saturday.

FINAL TRIBUTES PAID HARLAN T. THOMPSON

Friends and relatives of Harlan T. Thompson gathered at the Hook Funeral Home to pay their final tributes at funeral services held there for him at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of Grace Church, officiating at the services, read a memorial tribute and "Crossing the Bar" and delivered the funeral sermon and quoted from the Scriptures. Mrs. Donna McCoy sang the two hymns "Jesus Savior Pilot Me" and "Good Night and Good Morning" with Rev. Parkin playing the accompaniment.

The floral remembrances were arranged by Miss Jean West. Mrs. Jean Stevens, Mrs. Ann Schneider and Mrs. Pearl Schneider.

Burial was made in the Jamestown Cemetery with Leland Stevens, John Schneider, Don Thornton, Dale Thornton, Floyd Palmer and Raleigh Davids, the pallbearers.

waste by yesterday's daylight bombing by American four-engined planes, Berlin dispatches to the Swedish press said today.

A German spokesman was quoted as saying he was unable to give details, but "there was great devastation in the center of the city."

The Berlin spokesman acknowledged Allied superiority in aerial warfare and said there was no indication that the Germans would be able to halt the increasing raids, but told Swedish correspondents the war would not be won in the air.

WILLIS LUMBER YARD HAS BIG SUPPLY OF LOGS

Heavy Demand for Hardwood Timber on Part of Government

At the present time The Willis Lumber Company, producers of hardwood lumber, have the yards well filled with some extra choice timber, chiefly white oak and burr oak, although there is some hickory and maple included in the yards.

The plant resumed work Thursday night after having been closed for 10 days, due to lack of help, while some of the men went into the woods to help cut the standing timber and get it ready to truck to the yards here.

While some of the timber now on hands came from Fayette County, most of it is from the Lynchburg neighborhood and the logs were trucked here.

Like nearly all other industries, The Willis Lumber Company has been handicapped by a shortage of man power and trucking facilities and as time goes on the situation is growing worse instead of better.

For sometime there has been a tremendous demand for hard lumber on the part of the government and farmers and while preference must be given to the government which uses the timber for ship ribs and other purposes, second choice goes to the farmers who are in urgent need of lumber for corn cribs and other buildings.

Right now the demand is for lumber for corn crib bottoms and every available foot is picked up within a short time.

"We could sell millions of feet of lumber if we had it" said Willard S. Willis, head of the company, in discussing the business Friday.

The logs on hand will keep the mill operating for sometime and much additional timber is expected to reach the yards during the remainder of the fall.

MONTGOMERY CLOSING FILLING STATION HERE

New Holland Super-station Is Taken Over

O. M. Montgomery, who has operated the Sinclair filling station at the corner of East and Fayette streets for the past four years and built up a trade that taxed his own energies and facilities through what he called "personal service," will be closed for an indefinite period Sunday night, "Monty," as he is known to hundreds of his customers, said Saturday.

Montgomery is going to take charge of the super-station at New Holland and, he said, because he "just couldn't get the right kind of help" he has given up the station here. He took over the New Holland station about four months ago and planned to supervise its operation while carrying on here. However, he said that when he found he would have to give up one, he decided to continue with the New Holland station because of its inside facilities.

He explained that during the cold winter months "it is just too tough to do all that work outdoors, and, besides, I think I can do a better job when working inside in the winter."

At his new station, he pointed out, there is equipment inside for greasing and washing and a small repair shop. It also is equipped for complete tire service, including vulcanizing.

Montgomery said he would maintain his residence here and that he expected to service many of his old customer's cars by driving them back and forth when necessary.

Montgomery said he doubted if the station here would be reopened immediately, but assumed it would not be closed long.

Gasoline rationing has not affected the volume of his business at the station here, he declared with the explanation that he had kept all of his steady customers and picked up some new ones from the stations that closed when restrictions were applied to driving.

Moveable type was invented by Gutenberg in 1450.

However, he said that when he found he would have to give up one, he decided to continue with the New Holland station because of its inside facilities.

He explained that during the cold winter months "it is just too tough to do all that work outdoors, and, besides, I think I can do a better job when working inside in the winter."

At his new station, he pointed out, there is equipment inside for greasing and washing and a small repair shop. It also is equipped for complete tire service, including vulcanizing.

Montgomery said he would maintain his residence here and that he expected to service many of his old customer's cars by driving them back and forth when necessary.

Montgomery said he doubted if the station here would be reopened immediately, but assumed it would not be closed long.

Gasoline rationing has not affected the volume of his business at the station here, he declared with the explanation that he had kept all of his steady customers and picked up some new ones from the stations that closed when restrictions were applied to driving.

WILLIS LUMBER YARD HAS BIG SUPPLY OF LOGS

Heavy Demand for Hardwood Timber on Part of Government

At the present time The Willis Lumber Company, producers of hardwood lumber, have the yards well filled with some extra choice timber, chiefly white oak and burr oak, although there is some hickory and maple included in the yards.

The plant resumed work Thursday night after having been closed for 10 days, due to lack of help, while some of the men went into the woods to help cut the standing timber and get it ready to truck to the yards here.

While some of the timber now on hands came from Fayette County, most of it is from the Lynchburg neighborhood and the logs were trucked here.

Like nearly all other industries, The Willis Lumber Company has been handicapped by a shortage of man power and trucking facilities and as time goes on the situation is growing worse instead of better.

For sometime there has been a tremendous demand for hard lumber on the part of the government and farmers and while preference must be given to the government which uses the timber for ship ribs and other purposes, second choice goes to the farmers who are in urgent need of lumber for corn cribs and other buildings.

Right now the demand is for lumber for corn crib bottoms and every available foot is picked up within a short time.

"We could sell millions of feet of lumber if we had it" said Willard S. Willis, head of the company, in discussing the business Friday.

The logs on hand will keep the mill operating for sometime and much additional timber is expected to reach the yards during the remainder of the fall.

WILLIAM ALLEN DIES SATURDAY

Was Widely Known Candy Maker of This City

William C. Allen, 72, widely known candy maker and pop corn dealer of this city, died Saturday at 3 A. M. at his home, 421 Walnut Street, following several years of failing health.

Ever since he was a boy he had been engaged in the candy and popcorn business, following fairs and operating a stand on the streets of this and other cities.

By reason of the quality of his products, he always enjoyed a heavy patronage, and for a great many years had been a familiar figure at various fairs and other events where there was a demand for candy and popcorn.

He had resided in Washington C. H. most of his life, and leaves a wide circle of friends.

Surviving are his widow, one son, Loral, this city; a daughter, Mrs. Maude Barker, Columbus, and one brother, Robert Allen, Alliance.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 P. M. at the Klever Funeral Home and burial made in the Washington C. H. Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

EGGS FOR CIVILIANS TO INCREASE SOON

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—(P)—A large quantity of eggs will come out of storage and into consumer channels over the next several weeks, trade sources said today, as a result of action taken this week by the Food Distribution Administration and the War Food Administration.

The eggs will be made available in cities throughout the country, and as a storage product, may sell at a discount under the price for fresh eggs, dealers asserted. They also may have some influence on reducing fresh egg quotations, which now are at OPA ceilings.

These storage eggs will reach the market about the same time egg production expands seasonally. The result, dealers said, should help relieve the present situation in which demand outweighs supply.

BUSINESS SETS A NEW RECORD

B. & O. Officials Visit City Friday

Business on the local division of the B. & O. Railroad during the past three months reached an all time record, according to Supt. R. C. Diamond of the Newark Division, who was in this city Friday accompanied by F. D. Batchelor, Division Engineer.

The officials were going over the road making an inspection, and while here looked over the new interchange which will soon be completed.

For the past two or three years business on the B. & O. has been mounting steadily, and the all time record was reached during the months of July, August and September.

Heavy traffic is expected to continue indefinitely.

'DUSTING' IN WHEAT DUE TO DRY WEATHER

During the past week or 10 days work of wheat sowing has been under way in the community and this is one of those years when farmers are following the old saying of "sow in dust for a good wheat crop."

However, some farmers have stopped sowing wheat until rain comes and gives assurance that the wheat will come up and have sufficient moisture to keep the plants alive after they have sprouted.

During the coming week practically all wheat will have been sown.
